

Funding care solutions

Using equity release to help manage unexpected events

The Smith family

The Smith family found themselves in a tough situation when their son, Thomas, unexpectedly became ill. Thomas needed round the clock care, and the family struggled to afford it on the income from their final salary pensions. They needed to find a financial solution that worked for them, for both the short and long-term.

After looking into their various options, the Smiths decided to enquire further about what equity release could do for them. They found that the most popular form of equity release, a Lifetime Mortgage, would allow them to release a tax-free lump sum from the value of their property.

Their adviser recommended a drawdown product, which would allow them to access an initial lump sum while holding a further amount in a reserve facility to release at a later date. This could give them the power to confidently plan ahead for their son's care.

Improving Thomas's wellbeing

The Smith family decided to move forward with releasing equity, taking an initial lump sum of £70,000 and leaving a drawdown facility of £61,250. With support from an expert adviser, they could support their son when he needed them most.

Name: The Smith family

Age: Early 60s

Property value:
£625,000

Amount released: £131,250

Benefits and drawbacks of equity release

The most common type of equity release is a Lifetime Mortgage. It's important to consider potential advantages and risks when exploring this financial option.

Benefits:

- You'll receive a tax-free lump sum to spend however you choose.
- Providing you choose a Lifetime Mortgage from a member of the Equity Release Council, you will have a no-negative equity guarantee. This means you will never owe more than the value of your own home.
- Most lenders will allow you to make optional repayments to reduce the build up of interest on your loan. If you would like to make voluntary payments, speak with your adviser.
- You can choose between a lump sum and a drawdown product depending on your situation. With a lump sum, you will be able to access all the money you release at once, whereas a drawdown will allow you to leave a portion of your release in a reserve facility to access later.
- Unlike other equity release options, a Lifetime Mortgage will allow you to retain full ownership of your home.

Factors to consider:

- A Lifetime Mortgage may affect your entitlement to means-tested benefits and will reduce the value of your estate.
- The interest on a Lifetime Mortgage will compound, meaning the amount you owe will increase over time. The interest rates will depend on your age, your home's value, the type of plan you choose, and the market rates at the time of your release.
- Be aware that you could incur additional costs in the equity release process, including advice, solicitor and lender fees.
- If you wish to move home, your new property will need to be approved by your lender.

The Smith family chose to release equity after discussing with a qualified financial adviser and understanding how it would affect their situation. It's essential to consider all available options and how different equity release products will affect you.

This is a fictional scenario based on a real customer experience, created for illustrative purposes only.